

All file loading and packages required are within the script. The initial tests are done prior to line 360 with everything thereafter being the final results achieved.

The OPS predictor is only supplemental but the csv files used in that and packages are listed out in the script as well.

All csv files used in this are in this section and can be downloaded in order to replicate results. Sections of each script are split up, stopping it from running all the way through in order to examine certain results.
